WE NOMINATE

John Henry O'Hara, one of the highly controversial American men of letters and an exemplar of "The New Princeton" of post-World War II years, who on the threshhold of his 56th birthday ranks among this country's "most read" authors. Some 27 years after the publication of his first novel, O'Hara can lay claim to a distinction accorded few literary powers. His most recent effort, issued in time for the Christmas trade, ranks sixth in the land on the listing of current-fiction Best Sellers, while an accurate barometer of Paperback Best Sellers places O'Hara reprints in second and fifth positions in a field of 10.

Even in a period when nearly 1,000,000 paperbacks are sold every day of the year in the United States, O'Hara's outreach and following are staggering. The newly issued "Sermons and Soda-water," a collection of three short novels, entered the Best Seller listings five weeks ago and in a month jumped five notches. On the paperback side of the ledger, "From the Terrace" trails only "Exodus" and down the roster, just below "Dr. Zhivago," is O'Hara's 26-year old "Butterfield 8," an unsavory, tightly written story currently riding a Hollywood boom. The publisher reports 800,000 copies of the latter now in print.

O'Hara, living a quiet life in rural Princeton and once described as "a new Ring Lardner," has never succeeded in inspiring unanimity among critics. One, recently reviewing "Sermons and Soda-water," found O'Hara "at his best and most compassionate." Another, writing for a leading literary publication, welcomed the three novellas "as one who has suffered intensely from Mr. O'Hara's works in the longer form" and therefore applauds "any reason at all for his abandonment of it and thank providence that, for whatever motive, he has decided to stay his hand."

Whatever the critical reactions might be, O'Hara is a skilled, tremendously versatile literary craftsman who—perhaps most important of all—is as American as the town of Pottsville, Pa., where he grew up as the eldest in a family of seven children. Like one of his major literary heroes, Ernest Hemingway, whom a decade ago he described as the greatest author since Shakespeare, he is the son of a physician, a non-college man and a trained journalist. He started out as a young reporter on the "Pottsville Journal," sharpened his ear for dialogue in a variety of occupations and crashed the journalistic "big time" as secretary to the late Heywood Broun.

The issuance of "Appointment in Samarra" (1934), still enjoying wide circulation in paperback form, marked O'Hara's emergence as a front-rank novellst. "Butterfield 8" and a succession of excellent short stories were followed by "Pal Joey," which twice made boxoffice news on Broadway and added to the American lexicon such "New Yawkese" terms as "moola" (money) and "mice" (women). In 1949 "A Rage to Live" evoked the liveliest literary discussions of the year. His first collection of eassays, "Sweet and Sour," were warmly welcomed in 1954, while two years later "Ten North Frederick" carried off one of the coveted National Book Awards.

For serving as spokesman and chronicler for a generation whose members—in the words of one of O'Hara's narrators— "were the losing, not the lost, generation;" for his strikingly original contributions to American literature; for adding a new dimension to this community's literary traditions; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

DISSENSION DEVELOPS

Over Race for Governor. Sharply divergent opinions as to who should be New Jersey's next governor, simmering even during last fall's presidential battling, this week boiled over onto the front pages of metropolitan newspapers and into nightly television news programs. Sharpest difference of thought as to who should be next fall's candidate lay among the Republicans, whose none-too-well-knit ranks within the borders of the State had been split wide open by "intervention" from Washington as high as the Cabinet and the White House itself.

If the Democrats, too, were to head for the April primaries in a wild party scramble, their battle lines at the moment were less clearly drawn. The incumbent administration, which cannot by law run Governor Meyner for a third consecutive term, has merely let it be known that it considers a good 26 men within its ranks to have the potential to give the Republicans a solid run for their money. A more definitive choice with administration backing is expected shortly.

What tore the last shred of Republican togetherness apart—at least until the March deadline for filing petitions conceivably narrows the field—was, in effect, a $100 bill. That, plus the pre-primary campaigning of U. S. Senator Clifford P. Case.

Largely at the instigation of Sen. Case, whose landslide (330,000 majority) re-election last November lends unusual weight to his opinions among Republicans in the State, President Eisenhower's Secretary of Labor, James P. Mitchell, announced his candidacy for governor. Next day, Dwight D. Eisenhower took out his wallet, and made the first contribution to the Mitchell campaign with a $100 bill.

Meanwhile, Back Home. . . The next move was plainly up to G.O.P. leaders on the home front, and they lost no time in expressing irritation with the "interference" from the nation's capital. Eight of New Jersey's 11 Republican state senators issued a statement attacking Secretary Mitchell's candidacy, labelling him a virtual foreigner to the State and its problems:

"We believe no one should be considered for the high office of Governor of New Jersey who has not been active and is not familiar with state affairs, and has not had experience in problems of government facing the state.

"The predominate number of Republican senators will support any candidate meeting these qualifications. We feel Mr. Mitchell does not have these qualifications and he will not have our support."

If a number of the G.O.P. state senators were opposed to Secretary Mitchell's candidacy, it was for good reason: three of them have announced their own intentions of running, a fourth may be "available."

Hats already in the ring have name-tapes belonging to Walter H. Jones of Bergen County, Wayne Dumont Jr. of Warren and Charles W. Sandman of Cape May. Richard R. Stout of Monmouth (a member of the Princeton Class of 1935) has his county's organizational backing "if he decides to run" for the position he has on several occasions held on an acting basis.

Smith Supports Mitchell. Logically aligning himself with his former associates in Washington, Princetonian H. Alexander Smith this week climbed aboard the Mitchell handwagon. Said the former U.S. Senator in a release prepared at his 81 Alexander Street home:

"As a member of the Republican Party who has served in various party posts and who had the honor of representing New Jersey in the United States Senate for 14 years, I feel a responsibility to do all that I can to assist in the election of a Republican governor this fall. In Jim Mitchell I am convinced we have a winning candidate.

"My personal knowledge of and friendship for Jim Mitchell go back many years. A distinguished administrator, he has the ability, the vigor, the imagination and drive to make an excellent governor. We can all, and we all will, I hope, unite proudly behind his candidacy, in the best interests of our state and of our party."

Democrats on the Move. A gathering of the State's Democratic leaders at "Morven" just before the new year arrived served to publicize the names of 26 gubernatorial possibilities, one of whom it is hoped will add to the eight-year reign that Gov. Meyner began for his party when he defeated Paul Troast in 1953. But if the Democrats have no "home front-Washington" battle raging at the moment, a "north-south" split is in the making.

The only avowed Democratic candidate at present is Hoboken Mayor John Grogan, who carries the Hudson County backing of politico John Kenny. Gov. Meyner has indicated that he neither favors Mayor Grogan nor believes that he can win in November.

If the Hoboken hat remains in the Democratic ring, there is a strong possibility that an effort will be made to persuade Congressmen Frank Thompson Jr., Democratic Representative from the Mercer-Burlington District, to run. Just sworn in for a fourth straight term in the House, his consistent ability to outstrip his ticket has drawn increasing state-wide attention.

Actually, the Republicans may well be joined by their opponents in finding a prime candidate for governor handpicked by their leaders in Washington. And with the nation's administretion changing hands this Friday, at President-elect Kennedy's inauguration, Democratic "intervention" could also come from the White House itself.

Possibly in the hope of avoiding a primary battle—and certainly in the belief that a shinier chapeau can be found than the hat from Hoboken—President-elect Kennedy may top one of two New Jersey Congressmen on the shoulder. The choice would be either Rep. Thompson or Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr.

If the Democrats can build party harmony through ability to avoid an April primary, it will be a sizeable feather in their hats. For the Republicans, who last November lost the state at the presidential level for the first time in 16 years, it was a time for the most enreful sort of planning. A bitter three or four-way primary battle could hardly be an asset in efforts to make "Morven" a Republican residence next fall.

CO-CHAIRMEN NAMED

For Friends of Hospital. The Friends of Princeton Hospital, a new organization composed of people who are interested in the Hospital but not affiliated with it except as members of its corporation, have appointed as temporary co-chairmen R. Norman Sprague, 26 Bank Street, and Thomas P. Cook, 696 Princeton-Kingston Road.

The organization has announced that its main purposes are to maintain a large and representative membership in the Hospital corporation, to obtain highly qualified persons as trustees under the general principle of rotation and to obtain greater public participation in the government of the Hospital.

The Friends hope to present a slate of five candidates for trustees at the February 27 meeting of the Hospital Corporation.

There are now about 750 annual members and about 100 life members of the Corporation, which is the body that votes for trustees. In 1958, there were about 25 annual members and in 1959 about 75.

In a statement just released, Mr. Sprague and Mr. Cook said: "A substantial group of Princetonians believe that there has not been nearly enough public participation in the affairs of the Hospital Corporation and that relations between the Hospital and the community at large can be improved.

"They also believe that the principle of rotation in office is a sound one, but that it has not been sufficiently observed in recent elections for the board of trustees. Of the present 15 elected members, 11 have been on the board for six years or more and of those, nine have been on for nine or more years.

"These trustees and officers of long-standing have no doubt rendered able and dedicated service to the Hospital. New faces and new ideas, however, are always needed to keep any organization on its toes and responsive to changing conditions and demands."

"Our purpose is to improve these conditions, not in a spirit of adverse criticism, but always with a constructive attitude of supporting and helping the hospital which serves us."

Other officers are J. Merrill Knapp, Rosedale Lane, treasurer; Mrs. John K. Hemphill, 892 Kingston Road, secretary; and Thomas C. Roberts, Miss Esther C. Dilworth, Mrs. Richard Lindabury, the Rev. David H. McAlpin, Jr., Mrs. Archibald Crossley, Jordan C. Churchill and Mrs. Dennis Flanagan, members of the executive committee.

Those who wish to join the Friends of the Princeton Hospital may send names and addresses and $1 dues per person, to Mr. Knapp or Mrs. Hemphill. Additional information may be obtained from Mrs. Hemphill at WA 4-5513.

ROUND-UP

Hearings were scheduled to end this week in Washington on three separate applications to the Federal Communications Commission for the right to operate a radio station in the Princeton area.....two groups of Princeton residents, one, the New Jersey Broadcasting Corporation; the other, the Nassau Broadcasting Company are both hopeful of being awarded the wave length that has been open here for the better part of three years....a Pennsylvania chain of small radio stations is also interested in acquiring the frequency ....the FCC is not expected to reach a decision until next summer, and thereafter, either or both of the losers can appeal, so no new developments in the lengthy proceedings are likely in the near future.

Friday's inauguration in Washington will be shown to 200 Littlebrook School pupils on two large-screen television sets installed especially for the historic occasion....in social study classes this week, they have prepared questions which will be answered by the televised action....Principal Charles Lamontagne's comment: "The children will be watching with a purpose."

The New Jersey Bankers Association, headquartered for several years next to The Playhouse, is planning to build near Research Park (northeast of the Shopping Center)....variances on its behalf will be sought this Thursday night at the meeting of the Township Zoning Board.

Speaking of bankers, a coin shortage is developing...inability of the U.S. Mint to meet the demand is being compounded by the penny tax increase on a pack of cigarettes in New Jersey, which necessitates more of the coppers for change-making .... people with well-filled piggy banks are being asked to turn them in for dollars to ease the shortage.

Sunday's rain, sleet and then snow provided slippery but not hazardous traffic conditions...about two inches of snow coated the streets but steady salting (promptly inaugurated by accurate information from the town's weather forecasting service in Boston) had the situation under control by dawn Monday.

The week produced two minor accidents: on Friday (the 13th), Mrs. John H. Houghton, 122 Hun Road, was making a turn from Stockton Street into Lovers Lane when struck in the rear by a car operated by George Demitry of Trenton ...Mrs. Houghton's car spun around and hit a Township truck parked while engaged in snow removal on Lovers Lane ....no injuries, but considerable damage.

Mrs. Archibald Crossley, 21 Battle Road, encountered ice in making the turn around Palmer Square near the Post Office last Wednesday and struck a parked car in which Mrs. Murray S. Burklund, 81 Harriet Drive, was sitting.... Mrs. Burklund, whose car was pushed several feet forward by the impact, suffered a whiplash injury to her neck.

FACE OF THE FUTURE: This is an architect's drawing of the new Community Park School to be built on Witherspoon Street across from Valley Road School by the Township Board of Education. In this sketch, the viewer is looking west. Witherspoon Street is at the bottom of the picture, running out of sight on the right. The school's driveway (left) goes into school property in such a manner that children will not have to be discharged or picked up on Witherspoon. A pre-cast concrete "umbrella" will shelter children at the main entrance. The school is placed at an angle on the site in the hope that future Community Gardens buildings—such as a new Township Hall—will also be built at an angle, thereby creating vistas between structures which the architects believe to be more interesting than a straight line of buildings along Witherspoon. Bricks of various kinds will be used on the outside of the school building, and colorful ceramic-faced blocks will be placed on the facade of the classroom wing at the left to provide contrast. The gymnasium and auditorium wing at the rear can be shut off from the rest of the school for evening or weekend use.

NEW SCHOOL INTRODUCED

To Township Voters. Every home in Princeton Township will receive early next week a brochure from the Township Board of Education describing in detail the new Community Park School, its relation to Community Gardens, the Township's need for a new school and the estimates of its cost.

Residents will vote on the $1,150,000 bond issue for the new building at the school election on Tuesday, February 14. A public hearing on the new school and the bond issue will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday, February 2 at Valley Road School. Detailed drawings will be on view at each Township school until the hearing.

The school board estimates that the construction costs of the new school will increase taxes about seven points during 1963, the first full year of payment of both principal and interest.

This amounts to an increase of about $21 in the taxes on property assessed at $30,000. During the remainder of the 30-year period of bond retirement, the amount budgeted for principal and interest would be less, and a continuing increase in Township rateables would decrease the tax impact still more, the school board points out.

Between the 1950 census and the 1960 census, the population of the Township increased from 5,407 to 10,320 — 90 percent — and the school board recognized the need for a new elementary school in the central area as early as 1956. At this time, the board surveyed the future school needs of the Township and developed long-range plans for meeting the population increase.

Detailed plans for the Community Park School were deferred until the more pressing needs at Riverside and Johnson Park were met, the school board says. In the meantime, Valley Road has served both as an elementary school for children from the central area, and an upper-grade school for children from the entire Township. The board believes that this situation cannot be continued beyond the next school year without overcrowded classrooms and "serious dislocation" of children. At present, Valley Road has three substandard classrooms.

To Sell Stony Brook. The board has put the Stony Brook administration building on the market, and plans to move the administration offices from Stony Brook to Valley Road as soon as the building has been sold. When Community Park is built, the administration offices will move into the new building.

The new school will accommodate 630 children when it is full. There will be 24 classrooms: 12 for kindergarten through grade five from the central Township area, 10 for grade six students from all over the Township and two for educable classes.

Gymnasium, auditorium - lunchroom and library will be in a wing separated from the classroom area by administrative offices. This arrangement will permit community use of these rooms at night and on weekends without opening the classroom wing, and entrances from the street and from Community Park have been provided.

The architects have designed the school with as much flexibility as possible and they have achieved a plan which will cost about $18 per square foot to build.

At the invitation of the school board, officials from the State Board of Education followed the development of the plans step by step, visiting the Community Gardens site and conferring with Clarke and Rapuano, landscape engineers in charge of planning Community Gardens. The school's seven-acre plot is smaller than state officials like to approve, and the Township board wanted the state to realize, from the beginning, that the Community Gardens land would be available for the school's recreational needs.

After a favorable referendum, the state must approve final plans. Construction would start July 1.

Jean Labatut, former chairman of the Township Planning Board, served as a consultant on the plans. Members of the Citizens Advisory Committee under Henry Broad, also assisted in formulating the plans.

CONSULTANT CONSIDERED

By Township. Township Committee received from the Planning Board Monday night a request to retain a planning consultant as soon as possible to advise the municipality on filling in the details of the Master Plan. Committee decided to consider the possibility in its next budget sessions.

Such a consultant would do "home-work" for the Planning Board in multiple housing, light industry, preparing of an official map and deciding whether the burgeoning Township has enough areas zoned for retail business establishments.

Committeeman John F. Mount said that the sub-committee on roads would like to have a topographical map of the southwestern corner of the Township so that it could pinpoint new roads, chiefly a portion of the proposed loop road. Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman said the money would probably not be available for this project this year, but Committeeman Thomas P. Cook said he felt that the contour map was necessary so that new roads could be kept out of the flood plain. This project will also be considered in forthcoming budget sessions.

Committee passed a resolution retaining the landscape engineering services of Clarke and Rapuano for the development of Community Gardens, Committeeman William Marvel said that the Board of Recreation Commissioners had considered three applicants before deciding on the firm. The resolution also provides for retaining the services of Van Note and Harvey for surveying.

Township Attorney Gordon Griffin was directed by Committee to prepare an ordinance abolishing the community's personal property tax. Assessor Stuart Robson told Committee that the Township's share of this tax amounted to about $18,000 a year, or less than one percent of the 12 million that the Township takes in annually in taxes. Mr. Robson said he felt that, because there were so few renters in the Township, the municipality would not suffer through loss of the personal property levy. Because of the expensive bookkeeping equipment required to meet new state requirements on collecting the tax, the Township would spend, according to Mayor Fairman, one-third to one-half of the tax in order to collect it.

Committee decided to communicate again with Kingston Trap Rock and ask company representatives to appear on the first or third Monday in February in order to explain the blasts of December 5. The company had asked for a deferment of its appearance until its experts were ready to appear.

Township clerk Joseph Nini told Committee he had received a letter from Raymond F. Mele, Commissioner of Labor and Industry, informing the Township that the company's December 5 blasting had been investigated by the Bureau of Mine Safety before receipt of Committee's letter asking for such an investigation. Mr. Male said that Kingston Trap Rock had been under "continual surveillance." He also said that, rather than write a report, he would send Albert J. Getz, chief mine safety engineer, who would report on the situation before Township Committee.

HOUSING SITES OFFERED

For University Faculty. Now that final hurdles with the Township Planning Board have been cleared, the University is ready to develop the second section of its Grey Farm tract east of Harrison Street, and a drawing will be held on February 20 for half-acre sites in the 48-site development.

Professors and associate professors on regular appointment and administrative personnel of equivalent rank are eligible to apply. At least 14 applications must be received before the sites are assigned.

The section to be developed lies between Hartley Avenue on the north and Lake Carnegie on the south. It is east of Harrison Street and the first section of the Grey Farm development which consists of 34 sites on McCosh Circle and in the Broadmead area.

Homes in the new development, to be built around a new circle called Maclean Circle and Hartley Avenue, will range from $30,000 to $35,000. There will be a large common area providing space for recreation, accessibility to the lake for all home-owners and in most cases, a clear view of the lake.

Individual choice of architectural design will be given wide latitude. An Architectural Control Committee has been established, consisting of Douglas W. Orr, the University's consulting architect; Alfred L. Test, general manager of the University's Real Estate Department; and Professor Erling Dorf.

CHAIRMEN NAMED

For "March" Committees. Mrs. Robert D. McGilvra and Mrs. Theodore R. Polls have been named co-chairmen for Coffee Day and coffee parties for the Princeton March of Dimes. The appointments were announced this week by Malcolm Megner, chairman of the March of Dimes for Princeton.

"Coffee Day" was observed on Tuesday, and nine shops donated to the March of Dimes all proceeds from the sale of coffee on that day. Participating were The Nassau Coffee Shop, Lahiere's Restaurant, The Grotto, Hy's Delicatessen, The Ranch Room, Esquire Luncheonette, Sunbeam Luncheonette, Chen's Chinese-American Restaurant, Viedt's and Artistic Hairdressers. Artistic serves coffee to its patrons without charge, so patrons made voluntary contributions on Coffee Day.

The co-chairmen were hostesses at a coffee party given at Mrs. Potts' home on Tuesday. Each of the 28 women who attended were asked to continue chain coffee parties throughout the community during the rest of January for the benefit of the "March."

Those who attended were

The immediate future appeared satisfactory for the time of year—seasonably cold and generally fair through the weekend. No real precipitation in sight.

DEAR TRAVELEX,

Well, I took your advice and had a wonderful trip to Europe! It was all I'd ever dreamed of and more. With International Airlines' seventeen-day special rates it was a cinch. I went to France and bought a new car and drove it down to Switzerland for some skiing. It was glorious! I even bought some new skis and ordered a pair of custom-made boots for about half of what I would pay at home. I stayed in a quaint little pension with some other girls and we had a great time roughing it. Very reasonable. After a few days in the snow I went down to Spain and lolled around in that wonderful sunshine in Valencia. But oh that road through the Pyrenees! I could hardly bear to leave the Mediterranean coast, so went around through Marseille and spent a day in Monaco, then on back up through Lyon, Orleans, Versailles and Paris.

We had a perfect flight home. Did you realize that when you're that far above the earth at night the sky isn't black but a deep soft purple? You can see the curve of the earth and feel as if you could touch the stars.

Well, to come down to earth and get quite practical, the cost of my plane ticket and the new car (which I brought home) was less than the same car would have cost if I had bought it at home and never gone anywhere!

With many thanks for putting me on to this wonderful trip.

Nancy

Tickets for single performances in the evening are $4.50 and $3.50, orchestra, and $4, $3, and $2, balcony. For matinee performances, tickets cost $2.90 and $1.90, for both orchestra and balcony.

Also available at 20 percent off is an open subscription for those who do not wish to those who do not wish to advance. It includes a book of ten coupons exchangeable for orchestra seats for any of the drama season productions. They are $24 per book for matinee and and $36 per book for evenings.

The five plays being offered are "King Lear," "As You Like It," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Twelfth Night" and "Hamlet."

THE PLAYHOUSE

Th Grass Is Greener (January 18-24) presents Cary Grant, Deborah Kerr, Robert Mitchum and Jean Simmons in an overlong but thoroughly funny color comedy about love among Britain's indigent rich. Grant, looking for all the world like a somewhat handsomer and more statesmanlike Jack Kennedy, is the best thing in the show, handling the usually witty dialogue with more aplomb and verve than any one man ought rightly to possess.

He is a bright but financially hard-pressed British earl, who has taken to guiding tourists through his ancestrial mansion in an attempt to augment his income. His wife, Miss Kerr, is just mild about Cary, and she falls decorously but enthusiastically into the arms of American millionaire Robert Mitchum. Miss Simmons is a London divorcee, a friend of Miss Kerr and a bemused admirer of Grant. After Miss Kerr has gone off for a week in London with Mitchum, Grant invites the American to spend a weekend at the house, and tries to find a way to regain Miss Kerr's affections.

It goes on and on in this vein, but the dialogue (by Hugh and Margaret Williams) is clever enough to fend off tedium. Noel Coward did the musical score, and Stanley Donan was the producer-director. As the foregoing plot outline indicates, this is not kiddie fare. Recommended.

The Marriage - Go - Round (January 25-31). Regular readers of this department — both of them — will recall that we have been waging a quiet battle for some time against Hollywood's misuse of its new freedom to deal with "Adult" themes. Moderation has been our watchword, and will continue to be. We think it's great that Hollywood has been able to produce films like "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," and that distributors are free to import the good foreign films that come right out and admit there's no truth to the stork legend.

But the particular difficulty on the West Coast is that a good many producers seem to confuse "adult" with anything concerning sex; if adultery was a mature subject in "Room at the Top," they tacitly assume it must be a mature subject in the most leering, bumbling comedy. "The Marriage-Go-Round" is a case in point.

The plot concerns a university couple who are happily married until a buxom Scandinavian beauty arrives with the intention of producing a perfect child, to be fathered by the university husband. The performances are adequate, but the story is handled with ADELE ADDISON TO SING Recital Monday at McCarter. Adele Addison, soprano, will give a recital Monday at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre. James Payne will he at the piano for this concert, which is the fourth in Series II of the Princeton University Concerts.

The program will open with Mozart's "Ch'io mi scordi di te;" four songs by Felix Wolfes, one of Miss Addison's teachers; three songs by Richard Strauss, and Hindemith's "La Belle Dame sans Merci." Second half of the program will include Debussy's "Ariettes Oubliees;" a group of songs by Aaron Copland and otheres by Charles Ives.

Miss Addison, who received her early training at Westminster Choir College, studied with Boris Godolvsky and Povla Frijsh. She made her New York recital debut at Town Hall in 1952 and has since achieved a reputation as an artist with a distinctively beautiful voice and extraordinary musicianship. Tickets for this concert are on sale at the University Store and will alsn be sold at the box office Monday evening.

MRS. HARSANYI SINGS Under Friends' Spoosorship. On Saturday evening, the Friends of Music at Princeton presented a song recital by Janice Harsanyi, sorprano, assisted by Vladimir Sokoloff, pianist, in 10 McCosh Hall. The concert was very well attended, which was quite understandable. Mrs. Harsanyi is one of Princeton's most notble musicians, the program was of exceptional interest, and the performers proved to be thoroughly proficient in every respect.

The "Frauenliebe und Leben", with which Mrs. Harsanyi opened her program, is one of Schumann's best known cycles, and it is also one of the finest of all song cycles. Mrs. Harsanyi sang the work with her customary control and flawless intonation but somehow fell a bit short of sustaining the overall shapes.

Perhaps this was due to an error of judgment in opening a recital with so taxing a work, or perhaps Mrs. Harsanyi's voice is not quite deep enough for this particular cycle. At any rate, one felt a tendency to interpret dynamics in terms of volume alone rather than projection, although in the final "Nun hast du mir den ersten Schmerz gegetan" she did succeed in projecting the sustained line and sense of involvement which are so much the essence of Schumann's vocal writing.

A group of songs by Faure (the third, "Apres un Reve", was especially well performed) was followed by four contemporary songs in English, two by Princeton composers: Roger Session's early but skillfully sustained "On the Beach at Fontana", and an excerpt from Malcolm Peyton's "Shakespeare Songs", which this reviewer preferred in its original chamber ensemble form — a good deal was lost in the reduction to a piano accompaniment. Aaron Copland's "Old Poem" and Benjamin Britten's "Let the Florid Music Praise" completed this group.

In the concluding group of Hugo Wolf songs (and in the two encores, Schumann's "Widmung" and Schubert's sublime "An die Musik") Mrs. Harsanyi provided the most sensitive interpretations of the evening, singing with flexibility of dynamics and tempi. Again, one wished that the "Frauenliebe und Leben" had come at the end of the program rather than the beginning, for at this point Mrs. Harsanyi was singing with considerably more warmth, although the Wolf songs are materially more complex and difficult.

CONCERT STAR: Adele Addison, soprano, will sing Monday evening at McCarter in fourth concert in Series II of Princeton University Concerts.

Vladimir Sokoloff's playing was competent throughout, although characterized by that somewhat detached and perfunctory quality which is all too typical of professional accompanists.

It should he emphasized that, all told, this was a very fine recital, and that it is one more example of the rewarding endeavors of the Friends of Music who, among other worthwhile activities, have consistently sponsored concerts of exceptional interest.

WARSAW PHILHARMONIC Heard in McCarter. The Warsaw Philharmonic (presented by S. Hurok and C-K Productions) played Thursday at McCarter Theatre, giving Princeton concert-goers a chance to assess not only Polish instrumentalists but Polish composers as well, for the program was made up largely of contemporary Polish music. This reviewer left considerably impressed by the quality of Polish orchestral playing, and considerably depressed by the quality of Polish composition.

Much has been written recently about Poland's musical independence from the Soviet cultural norms, and of young progressive Polish composers. If such composers exist in Poland, they were certainly not represented in the Warsaw Philharmonic's program (which should not surprise anyone who has noted the representation of American music in the programs of American orchestras touring Europe).

Antoni Szalowski's "Overture" which opened the concert, was nothing more than a pale reflection of the most superficial elements of Shostakovitch and Prokofiev. The "Concerto for String Orchestra" by Grazyna Bacewicz showed some Western influences (primarily Hindemith, but seasoned with a few Bartok touches), but — like Szalowski's "Overture" — never rose above the level of routine competence.

The third Polish composer represented was Karol Szymanowski, of an earlier generation, and more familiar to American audiences. Although his First Violin Concerto (performed most admirably by the soloist Wanda Wilkomirska) immediately displayed an authority and mastery of technical means lacking in the work of Szymanowski's younger collegues. But this work too was lacking in substance; Szymanowski's music employs the vocabulary of the great nineteenth century composers, but not the structural realizations which transform competent music into great music.

The program concluded with Beethoven's Seventh Symphony, giving the audience a chance to assess fully the abilities of the orchestra and its conductor, Stanislaw Wislocki. It proved to be a very-fine orchestra indeed, with a taut, muscular sound which is quite unfamiliar to American ears, which are accustomed to textures more lush and dense.

The advantages of the former type became quite apparent; the textural transparency allowed a wealth of detail to be revealed which normally remains submerged. While Mr. Wislocki's interpre-

PHOTO FINISH

At Photography Center, Photographers who have left the Brownie far behind will be enthusiastic about a new service available at the Photography and Art Center at 100 Nassau.

This is a service which offers custom developing and printing of your very best efforts. All the work is done right in the store's own darkroom by a highly skilled professional who will handle your negatives individually and with the greatest care.

Even the best commercial developing and printing — and the Photography Center offers fine commercial processing as well — can mean an occasional scratch on a negative, an occasional spot on a fine print. But in custom developing and printing, the man in the darkroom can take the time to see that the accidents do not happen.

Although the Center is equipped to do both developing and printing, they will do printing only, if you have a favorite negative you'd like to have enlarged. They will make, let's say, a 5x7 or an 8x10 enlargement on top quality paper so that you can display your prints, mounted. You may choose between matte or glossy finish.

If you bring in a roll of film for complete custom processing, they will give you a sheet of contact prints representing everything on the roll, and will then print the negatives you thinnk are best in whatever size you choosa.

Allow about three or four days for custom service, and figure that you will pay about twice the amount you'd pay for standard processing. For example, an 8x10 enlargement should be $1.25, a 5x7 would be $1. The custom service applies only to black and white film.

HOUSE ON THE CIRCLE

For Lampshades, Lamps. On the Route 69 Pennington Traffic Circle, three-quarters of the way around if you enter from the Princeton side and Route 546, stands the house, shop and storehouse of the Trent Handy Shop, a place where you can browse in a daze for an hour or more looking over the brass and copper antiques, or do a brisk transaction with Mr. Valentine about converting your old Ming vase into a lamp.

The specialty of the house, so to speak, is converting lamps, fitting them with shades, and replating old silver, brass and copper. This place can change anything into a lamp, anything in the world, even Aladdin himself. We saw brass urns, cut-glass vases, massive candlesticks, oil lamps and pottery jugs, all of which had been transformed into lamps and topped off with the appropriate shades.

If you already have a lamp, you may order a custom-made shade from Trent, at prices ranging from $3 to $150. A $150 lamp shade, if you're not in the market but just curious, would probably be made of Chinese silk brocade or possibly Italian silk with hand-smocking. We saw one beauty in ivory silk worked on a frame 22 inches across by 18 inches deep, and that's some lamp!

You have a choice of lampshade fabrics from card after card of swatches: silk shantung, Dupploni, raw silk, antique silk taffets, faille or crepe, in colors ranging from eggshells to black satin brocade. Yes, black!

There are ready - made shades here, too, even those oval ones that can be so hard to find, and cut-work ones in metallic colors.

On the replating side, Trent Handy will take care of the dingiest piece of silver, or the saddest brass. The shop takes particular pride in its pewter repair because pewter is such a difficult metal to work with. It's so soft, you see, that it dissolves in a helpless puddle if too much heat is applied.

For people with a yen to buy, Trent has such tempting delights as a 20-inch Italian copper candy vat ($35), a copper frying pan which stands above the stove on three three-inch high legs ($25), an unusual dry sink ($185) with a superstructure incorporating a narrow shelf and four spice drawers and a fascinating copper hamper which street vendors used to carry over their shoulders. The hamper has compartments for sauerkraut, rolls, frankfurters and hot coals to keep everything steaming.

One of Mr. Valentine's favorite pieces is the double hanging student lamp in green-shaded brass. It's about 36 inches long, with a brass center font and two side lamps, now wired for electricity, of course. This is a genuine relic of mid-19th century America, Mr. Valentine tells us.

Incidentally, he does not carry any reproductions. Everything in the shop is out of the past. Except those $150 lampshades.

Brass Impregnable

Some of the handsomest pieces at the Trent Handy Shop, whose activities you'll read about elsewhere on this page, are solid, gleaming brass. In fact, your first glance around the shop may lead you to think that Mr. Valentine specializes in brass.

He has a breath-taking old Chinese tray, 45 inches long and 34 inches wide at the widest part of its oval. It's $185. Mr. Valentine will make a table base for it, if you wish.

Then, there is a floor lamp made from an old piano lamp with all its original brass filigree retained. Quite an Oriental flavor to this one.

Another floor lamp has been made by substituting square brass rods for the cast iron standard of the original lamp. A marble-top table has for its underpinnings the graceful convolutions of an antique brass bed.

Staying North This Year. On the theory that some women will remain in central New Jersey during the weeks ahead, The English Shop has stocked some splendid flannel culottes as well as the usual sports clothes for women going south.

The Shop has culottes from Even Picone in grey, pale beige, navy or light gray flannel, artfully cut and sewn with arrowhead pockets. Other culottes are dacron and cotton, in olive green, brown or blue with delightful matching tops in a unicorn print.

The same unicorn appears again in a dacron and cotton dress with a solid band of green, blue or lavender around the little cuff of the cap sleeve, and a solid collar.

A dacron and cotton sweater dress looks like a round-collar-

Report from THE MAYOR

A Reminder: L. B. Patterson, the Borough's Deputy Collector - Treasurer, has asked the Mayor to remind Borough taxpayers of the February 1st deadline for payment of the first quarter real and personal property taxes. After that date, the law requires that interest penalties be collected.

Actually, Princeton's record of prompt payment ranks among the best of New Jersey's municipalities. In fact, the Collector's innovation last year of mailing a tax bill a full year in advance has led to some unusual results.

The Treasurer's report of revenues on December 31, 1960 showed prepayment of 1961 taxes in the amount of $21,440. The picture was not entirely a bright one, however, because the same report showed $54,510.62 of 1960's taxes uncollected at the close of the year.

Shared Budgets: Borough and Township governing bodies hope to meet together on January 26 to review the budgets for fire, disaster control, library and other items where costs are shared. Each year the finance committees review these budgets and come to an agreement on the fair share for each municipality.

"Balance of Terror": Speaking at the first annual meeting of Princeton's Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council, Dr. Elmer Engstrom described the awesome developments in weapons technology and indicated that we now live in a "balance of terror." Pointing out that we have the capacity to develop a golden age or to destroy civilization, Dr. Engstrom stressed the need for us to develop "faith, wisdom and tolerance" if we are to survive in this scientific age.

The membership of this important civic group was treated to an inspiring message from one of this community's scientific statesmen. Dr. Engstrom's thoughtful paper should be given wide distribution.

Workable Program: The Federal government has acknowledged receipt of the Borough's request for recertification of the Program for Community Improvement, the so-called workable program.

Meanwhile, the Planning Board has asked its consultant to report on February 7 on his findings with respect to the urban renewal project area. The next step would then be a public hearing in accordance with New Jersey statutes to determine whether or not the area is blighted.

"Tell It To The Mayor!": This week's open house session was scheduled for Tuesday evening. Next week's session will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall on Friday, January 27. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Legislation: The executive director of the New Jersey League of Municipalities has notified Mayor and Council of the appointment of Borough Engineer Arthur T. Brokaw to membership on their legislative committee for 1961. This appointment is added to a growing list of honors that have come to various members of our Borough staff and they, of course, reflect credit to them and to our community.

ed classic, until you take off the sweater and discover that the dress has a square neckline. The round collar was on the sweater all the time—fooled you! Appliques of embroidery enliven the sweater of this ensemble.

Linen co-ordinates consist of a semi-flared skirt with blue or green trimming on the cap sleeves and round collar. There are small self-buttons.

For ladies who like to pretend, The English Shop has a shirtwaist in dacron that looks just like silk. Throw away the iron. It comes in gold, ivory and shades of grey stripes, or in similar blues.

Moygashel linen has been treated to a print of shaggy pompons arranged so precisely that they could pass for polka-dots. Waistline on dress is adjustable. We can't speak for the pompons.

The English Shop has now added to its women's department a collection of Shrank lingerie, featuring short Tommy-coats in tricot or corduroy, over matching pajamas. In the case of the corduroy, you get a turquoise or pink coat with print pajamas. The tricot coat matches the pajamas exactly.

Gowns come alone, or with peignoirs, and the favorite color is a soft blue. In the same line, you'll find a dacron and cotton slip with eyelet bodice and tailored hem band.

all the subtlety and taste of a group of high school students boasting of apocryphal amatory successes.

James Mason, Susan Hayward and Julie Newmar are the principal perpetrators. It is in CinemaScope and color.

THE GARDEN

Royal Ballet (January 17-21) is an excellently performed and photographed film featuring Margot Fonteyn, Michael Somes, Leslie Edwards, Bryan Ashbridge, Alexander Grant and Julia Farron with the Corps de Ballet of the Royal Opera House and the Covent Garden Orchestra.

The program in color, includes Act II of Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake," Stravinsky's "The Firebird" and Hans Werner Henze's "Ondine." Dr. Paul Czinner, who used four cameras three years ago to record "The Bolshoi Ballet," has increased the number of cameras to 11 for this one; you'll be able to see the action as well as any paying spectator who can't sit still.

Gold of Naples (January 23), produced in 1957, is a fine potpourri of the art of Vittorio De Sica. Based on four short stories by Guiseppe Marotta, the film stars Toto, Sophia Loren. De Sica (who also directed and co-authored the film) and Sylvana Mangano.

The four vignettes that make up the film involve a pathetic street clown (Toto) who must endure the encroachments of a racketeer; a pizza seller's wife (Miss Loren) who loses an expensive ring at her lover's home and tells her husband it must have been baked into a pie, a broken-down count (De Sica) who has gambled away his fortune, and a prostitute (Miss Mangano) who deserts her profession for a loveless marriage.

De Sica has captured the right mood for each segment, and the stars perform admirably. The film is in Italian with English titles. Recommended.

The Cranes Are Flying (January 24-28), the first Soviet film exhibited in this country under the cultural exchange program, is a sober, searching portrayal of the effects of love and war. It won first prize at Cannes last year.

Tatyana Samoilova and Alexei Batalov are the stars. The story opens with the invasion of Russia by Germany, and continues through the parting of the lovers, Miss Samoilova's ill-starred marriage to Batalov's cousin, and her reaction to news of Batalov's death. It is thoroughly convincing throughout, despite barely adequate English subtitles. The tenor of the film is distinctly anti-war, but propaganda is rarely allowed to interfere with the exploration of human nature. Recommended.

Music In Princeton

tation did not have the relaxed rhythmic flow and extended phrase structure of Walter's or Klemperer's, it was a valid interpretation nonetheless, and the performance was most rewarding to the listener. In the finale of Haydn's Symphony No. 88, which followed as an encore, the orchestra again demonstrated a control of rhythm and articulation which was truly remarkable.

The second encore was a noisy and vulgar Polish mazurka, of undetermined origin.

PERSON TO PERSON

We read a quotation from John Wanamaker, the world-famous merchant, which will be of special interest to people in business or intending to go into business. He said, "If there is one enterprise on earth that a 'quitter' should leave severely alone it is advertising.

"To make a success of advertising one must be prepared to stick like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. He should know before he begins it that he must spend money . . . lots of it.

"Somebody must tell him that he cannot reap results commensurate with his expenditure early in the game. Advertising does NOT JERK . . . IT PULLS. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady, until it exerts an irresistible power."

Of course, this is only one excerpt, for the lesson must also teach that advertising alone by itself cannot make one succeed. The advertising must be truthful, and one must live up to the claims made in the advertising. Then, a person efficient in about a score of other capacities, may have a good chance of success.

We try awfully hard to please you with the highest quality and service in every department, so please, come see us soon!

SERVICE GROUPS LAUDED

By Rescue Squad. The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad has stated that without the help and assistance from several organizations, it would not have been able to carry out its duties during the week of the December snowstorm when it answered 27 calls.

Singled out by the Rescue Squad were the Borough and Township police departments and road crews, and State Police at Princeton barracks. "On several occasions," a spokesman for the rescue group said, "snow plows were needed to enable us to reach our destination or to transport victims to the hospital."

The rescue organization also voiced its thanks to the Needlework Guild of America for its annual contributions of blankets, pillow cases and sheets which are used for roll-away stretchers.

MOTHERS TO SOLICIT

For March of Dimes. Next Saturday and Sunday, January 28 and 29, the annual Mothers' March will take place for the benefit of the March of Dimes. The campaign will be conducted during the day, a change from the evening hours last year.

Mrs. Phillip J. Wainford is chairman of the Mothers' March, with Malcolm Magner heading the overall Princeton drive. Coordinators of the area captains for the Mothers' March are Mrs. G. Hutton Hughes and Mrs. Ernest Steiger.

In 1960, the Mothers raised over $4600, bringing the total contributions to the March of Dimes to more than $9500.

STUDENTS TO SING

In Recital. Voice students of Mrs. Thomas Hilbish will be heard in recital on two successive Sunday afternoons in the Princeton Methodist Church. The first recital will be held this Sunday at 4 and the second at the same hour on January 29.

Those who will participate are Linda Law, Judy Coffman, Shiela Long, Carol Hersh, Susan Kilbon, Linda Almgren, Wendy Erdman, Louise Cook, Frances Mack, Carol Widmen and Ann Fenkheuser.

SOME COURSES OPEN

In YWCA Adult Program. A few places are still left in some courses in the Princeton YWCA Adult Program, it was announced this week by Mrs. Harold S. Willis, chairman of the Adult Program Committee. Mrs. Willis said that enrollment this term represents an all-time high.

Courses for which registration is still open include a new class in Beginning French, designed for women who have had no previous instruction in French; the intermediate guitar class conducted Wednesdays at 8 p.m. by Dominick Zullo, and a course in recreation of Paris fashions, to be given Friday mornings at 9:30 by Madame Mia Vallin.

Next meeting of the Senior Citizens' Club of the YWCA will be held this Friday at 2:30 p.m. A talk on flower arranging, entitled "Fruit, Flowers and Fun," will be given by Mrs. Richard Huber. Tea will be served.

Edmund DeVeney, 33, of Skillmen, and William Toto, Jr., 21, 724 Princeton-Kingston Road have had their licenses suspended for 60 days under the 60-70 excessive speed program. Thirty-day suspensions under the speed program were imposed on Arthur W. Santowasso, 18, Princeton Junction; Alfred A. Visintini, 33, Hightstown; May K. Moffett, 69, Hightstown and Howard I. Gambling Charge Clarified.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

On January 4, 1961, an article was written concerning a number raid on Jackson Street. It stated that five men were caught working with number slips. This is not true.

At the time of the raid, there was absolutely no gambling of any kind going on and no one using dice. The dice which were found had a layer of dust on them.

I have never been a member of any gambling group and have no intention of ever being one. I wish to thank TOWN TOPICS for this opportunity to clarify the incident.

2-4-6-8, WHY DON'T WE CONSOLIDATE? One beneficiary of consolidation between Borough and Township, in the opinion of Mrs. James Magee, would be the Princeton Public Library. For other comments on the question if this issue's dormancy is for better or worse, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: Since Township Mayor Fairman urged more than a year ago that a joint study of municipal consolidation be undertaken, little, if any, progress has been made. Do you feel this delay is for better or worse?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Carroll C. Pratt, 114 Broadmead, professor at University: For the worse. I think the sooner the two can work together and consolidate the better. They are becoming one area — I don't even know where the lines of division are — and it would be much more efficient if they could combine. I can sympathize with each one wanting its own independence but the unit is too small for that.

Miss Marie H. Zaepfel, 206 Nassau Street, retired teacher: I should say it's for the worst. If they are going to do anything about it, I think they should act one way or the other and not let it drag on forever. First, though, before they do any joining, they should clean up the town. They should train litterbugs, of which there are many, to deposit litter in containers and not on the sidewalk.

Stanley Kelley, 120 Prospect Street, assistant professor of politics at the University: I think there should be more done. In the long run, it's just silly to have two communities that are so closely tied together operate under separate governments.

Mrs. Percy H. Wood, 54 Hodge Road, housewife: Better for me, because if we had consolidation my taxes would go up. But I don't know if it would be bad for the whole community.

Brian Feughnan, 182 Snowden Lane, physicist: I think the delay is for the worst. I believe you can get a more efficient organization of the various municipal services through consolidation.

Mrs. John H. Dill, Lawrenceville - Princeton Road, housewife: I definitely think the Township and the Borough should combine. I also think that the northern end of Lawrence Township should be considered at the same time in any consolidation move. The whole Carter Road area on up — Rosedale Road, Province Line Road, etc. — is identified with Princeton. Most of its residents work and shop there. The advantage of attending Princeton High School is another reason why I'd like to see us considered.

Rome Wickirchen, 236 State Road, president of Princeton Language Center: I think any delay supplies additional time for evaluation by the Borough residents, as I imagine they would be more opposed to consolidation than the Township. I think it would be to the great advantage of the Borough to consolidate. They would be getting a valuable addition in the Township; the citizenry in the Township is tops. I'm looking at this from the human side and not from the service one. The overall benefit of consolidating would outweigh, I feel, other considerations of less importance such as the police department, the fire department and the building of schools. You can't stop progress, consolidation is coming and the Borough can't any longer remain so self-contained.

Mrs. James Magee, 217-C Marshall Street, children's librarian at Princeton Library: I think it would be good if they could get the proposed study completed. It might make for better relations between the two municipal governing bodies. I was thinking particularly of the library.

Frederick F. Stephan, 105 Fitz-Randolph Road, University professor: I think it is a problem that should be settled. There is no question in my mind that, ultimately, the Borough and Township should and will be united. I would like to be assured that we are working on it.

Mrs. William Schowalter, 262 Spruce Street, housewife: For the worse, because I really think it would be good to have consolidation. I believe things could be done more effectively and, possibly, more economically.

Harland F. Baker, 28 E. Stanworth Drive, retired: I think it's worse for the Township because of all the community services and cross traffic involved. I feel, if this study had been made, we would be one community by now.

Ledlie I. Laughlin, Drake's Corner Road, retired: I'm personally for consolidation and I would not like to see any more delay. Before, the Township was opposed to it because it would increase taxes but it has to come.

Mrs. Charles J. Young, 78 Stockton Street, housewife: I feel it would be much more efficient and economical to consolidate, especially for a joint library.

TIGERS TAKE CHARGE

Of Ivy Basketball Race. It will be more than two weeks before Princeton's basketball team resumes action in defense of its Ivy League championship. When it does, the Tiger quintet will be confronted with an opportunity to break the race wide open earlier than has been the case in many years.

As the league standings show, Cappy Cappon's entry has taken a two-game lead after playing only four of the 14 games on its Ivy schedule. Every other quintet has been beaten at least twice. What is more important, none has shown consistent ehility to win both at home and on the road as the Tigers have.

A pair of non-league games against Army and Colgate mark resumption of activity at the end of the month, following the current two-week break for term - end examinations. The first Ivy foe on the February schedule will be Pennsylvania, here in Dillon Gym on Saturday the fourth.

That will be followed by the tougher of the two weekend road trips on the schedule, an invasion of Providence and New Haven. Brown is on tap for a return game February 10, with Yale set to entertain the Tigers the following night.

Seven's tha Lucky Number. It Princeton can put those three contests on the right side of the ledger, the Tigers will be 7 and 0, and virtually unstoppable. Of the next three games, Brown on its own floor will probably be the most difficult to beat, although a Penn team that is back on track after two early losses to Cornell and Columbia will be troublesome here if the Tigers are below form.

SHARPSHOOTER IN ACTION: Pete Campbell, high-scoring member of Princeton's Ivy champions, connects for two points against Yale on an underhand layup. Tigers trounced Elis, 78-63. (TOWN TOPICS Photo by Philip Shambaugh.)

The past weekend saw Princeton defeat Brown and Yale by 11 and 15 points in Dillon Gym. Both these teams were also victims of Pennsylvania over the weekend, the twin defeats each sustained making their future paths particularly rough.

This is especially so in the case of Brown, a pre-season pick for a high finish. The Bruins are now lodged in the cellar (although all of their defeats have come away from home). On the season, they are no better than 8-8.

Balance Pays Off. Despite a few defensive lapses, particularly when Brown resorted to an all-court press that produced glaring Princeton errors, the Tigers had no great difficulty in winning their two games Friday and Saturday. The final scores were 71-60 over Brown and 78-63 over Yale, which was markedly the poorer of the two visiting quintets.

It was ability of four of five Princeton starters to average in double figures for both nights that made the going easy. Captain Don Swan, Pete Campbell and Art Hyland had ten points or better in each contest, averaging 15 apiece. Al Kaemmerlen made 19 against Brown, but was held to five against Yale largely because he was feeding from a high post position outside the foul circle and the other four were doing most of the shooting.

Still and all, Kaemmerlen averaged 12 for the two games and when the Tigers had a floor shooting average of 48 percent against the Bruins and 50 percent in the Yale game, the fat was in the fire long before the second half ended.

Brown made it close once after the intermission Friday, its all-court press resulting in three interceptions which were converted into as many field goals inside of a minute. This pared a Princeton lead of 40-37, but the Tigers had the dribbling and passing accuracy to offset the pressure and pulled steadily away.

Elis Lack Depth. A fine job of guarding Bill Madden, Yale's top scorer, turned in by sophomore Art Hyland, took most of the teeth out of the Bulldogs' attack Saturday. Until Cappon pulled the unusual by emptying his bench, Hyland limited Madden to six points, less than half the 14-point game average the Eli achieved last year.

It was 44-29 at half time and the Orange and Black could have named its own score had Cappon wanted to keep his regulars in action. But the reserves need all the sharpening they can get, and all nine of them saw action in the closing minutes against the Blue.

TIGER SKATERS WIN TWO

Attack Pays Dividends. An upset victory over Providence in overtime and a one-sided triumph over Cornell brought Princeton's hockey team within hailing distance of the .500 mark as it paused for examinations. What with Boston College and St. Lawrence, two of the east's best, next on the schedule, it will be a while before the Tigers top the break-even point.

They are, however, 6-7 on the season, largely because they can score steadily against all but the toughest opposition. Expectations are that they will be able to hold their own against any Ivy team save Harvard, which last week whaled defending champion Dartmouth, 7-1.

Cook, Hersey Star. With two members of the team, Paul Burgert and Jim Hyland, benched for having broken training rules, a wholesale shuffle of the line on which they had been skating was effected. Jim Wadsworth, who had been demoted to the Jayvees for failure to return for practice during vacation, was elevated to the line on which Johnny Cook skates. Doug Davis was moved up from the third line and the trio has been quite productive.

An action-packed third period in last Wednesday's Providence game saw six goals scored, four of them credited to the Tigers. Dave Hersey, sophomore member of the first line with Hugh Scott and Bill Miller, got three, with the flurry elevating the home team from a 3-1 deficit to a 6-3 lead.

However, defensive lapses followed and two Providence

Keuffel to Wabesh

Ken Keuffel, who coached Lawrenceville football teams to three straight unbeaten seasons, has resigned to accept the position of head coach of the sport at Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind. He will leave in time to direct spring practice there in March.

A member of the Princeton Class of 1947, Keuffel kicked the now-legendary field goal that defeated Pennsylvania for the Tigers in 1946. The 17-14 upset ranks as one of the greatest in the history of the sport.

In the past five years at Lawrenceville, Keuffel's teams won 28 games, tied two and lost only three. He is a disciple of the late Charlie Caldwell and teaches single wing football.

DON SWAN
Basketball Captain

In the 14 games that constitue Princeton's Ivy Basketball League schedule, it is unlikely that Captain Don Swan will make headlines on the sports pages. Yet if he suddenly became unavailable, the Tigers' chances of repeating in the often-unpredictable circuit would be dealt a major blow.

Until last weekend's games against Brown and Yale, Swan wasn't averaging in double figures. Most of the time, he's under the opposition's backboard, and at 6-3, he's likely to be pretty well screened out that near the basket by taller players.

Swan is a rebounding specialist, and last year's league statistics go to show just how good he is. With every other team in the circuit boasting two or more players taller than he, he placed second in total rebounds, and only Cornell's Jim Farley led him. Farley, now graduated, was 6-7.

The Tiger captain can score, of course, and frequently is one of the most accurate shooters on the team. He was a great 100 percent (six for six) from the floor against Yale, averaged 15 points in the two most recent victories and added a total of 26 rebounds.

A resident of Hamden, Conn., where he went to high school within field-goal range of the Yale campus, Swan was a starting member of his freshman team at Princeton but did not come into varsity prominence until his junior year. Like many a Cappon reserve, he watched from the bench as a sophomore while a team of four seniors and one junior carried highly-favored Dartmouth into a playoff for the title.

Exams have taken over, and there will be no further Ivy action for another two weeks. When play resumes, the Tigers' balance may enable them to take a stranglehold on the 1961 championship before mid-February.

Don Swan is the kind of captain who can provide the play and leadership essential to victory. If things break for him, he will deservedly become the first Princetonian to lead a basketball team to successful defense of an Ivy title.

Rutgers freshman team which set three new university records while sweeping to a 64-32 victory. Scarlet mermen set records in the 100-yard butterfly and in the medley and freestyle relays.

Basketball provided the bright spot in last week's competition as the Red and Black five rolled to a 66-54 victory over Bordentown Military Academy. Chuck Miller and Clark Connor lead Lawrenceville scorers with 22 and 19 points, respectively, as the team notched its fourth triumph against a lone loss.

BOWLING NOTES

Shelton Taps "A" Loop. Shelton Motors No. 1 (68) nosed out Grover Lumber by half a game to win the first half of the "A" League season to highlight Princeton bowling action last week. In the other first half finale, Decker's Dairy (102) finished five games ahead of Nassau Service in the Women's Industrial League. "C" Operations and SMAWG paced the Faculty loop with 54 points each.

In other action, Kingston and Belle Mead swept their opening series to jump into first place as the Tri-County Fireman's League began its second half, and Para Lab Supply maintained a two-point margin over Tiger Garage (60) in the Industrial loop. Walker Gordon, Prince Laundro, Cifelli Electric and Maul Electric all swept series in the "B" loop as did Craft Cleaners and Emens and McVaugh in the Women's League, to open second half action.

Barry Davall posted the top game of the week with 253 in the Firemen's League. Other notable scores included Frank Stofke, 231; Harry Kahny, 230; Jack Rhubart, 224; and Otto Olsen, 214, in the Firemen's loop; Bernie Giehl, 212; and Dick Brelsford, 209, in the Faculty League; Bob Sculerati, 220; Don Snyder, 212; Russ Sutphen, 209; and Joe Baldino, 207-200, in the "B" loop; and Phil Wesp, 209, in the Industrial loop. Joan Ainsworth paced the ladies with 213 in the Women's Industrial League, followed by Barbara Danser, 194, and Helen Tamasi, 192, in the Women's loop.

LEAGUE PLAY BEGINS

In YMCA Industrial League. The six-team Princeton YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball League has begun its first season of play in the Princeton High School gymnasium.

In the first game, RCA Lab swamped Opinion Research Corporation, 63 to 34. In the remaining two contests, Food Machinery Corporation topped RCA Astro, 33 to 24, and the YMCA beat the 3 B's, 42 to 36.

High scorer of the evening was Ray Tamasi of ORC with 21. His effort was offset, though, by the shooting of Bill Ennot and Vince Boccanfusso of RCA Labs who sank 29 points between them. Gary Gallagher's 11 points was high in the low-scoring second game won by FMC, as no player from Astro was able to hit double figures. Top point-getter for the victorious YMCA quintet was Dick Lanahan with 10, Ray Cevera had 12 for the losers.

goals within 32 seconds tied the game just before the contest ended. Actually, an assistant manager's failure to start the clock after a time out very nearly cost Princeton the victory: his oversight gave the visitors time to draw even when the contest actually should have been over.

In sudden-death overtime, four minutes and 40 seconds went by before Johnny Cook caged a sharp back-hand shot while skating across the face of the goal. It was very much a duplicate of the game's first score, which was also credited to him, and the twin efforts re-emphasized his standout value to the team. The Providence final was 6-5.

Cornell Beaten Easily. A five-goal outburst in the second period carried the Tigers to a one-sided 6-1 triumph over Cornell Saturday at Ithaca. The Red scored the only goal of the opening round but the Cook-Wadsworth-Davis line broke the game open before another 20 minutes of action had elapsed.

Davis paced the scoring with four goals, Wadsworth and Hersey getting the others. Wads and Cook each had four assists in the Tigers' romp.

OTHER SPORTS

Swimmers Impressive. Three more University records were broken Saturday by the swimming team as it topped Cornell, 68-27. Marks were set in the 400-yard medley, the 200-yard butterfly and the 100-yard freestyle—the latter replacing a record that had stood since 1953. Senior John Greist was emphatic in his performance, chopping 1.2 seconds off the previous mark as he covered the distance in a fine 51 seconds.

John Conroy's squash team continued unbeaten with 9-0 and 8-1 victories over M.I.T. and Cornell, but the fencers were beaten by N.Y.U., 18-9, and the wrestlers swamped by Lehigh. It was a 35-0 rout at Bethlehem.

FOUR CONTESTS SLATED

For Lawrenceville Teams. Four athletic events are scheduled for Lawrenceville School teams in the next three days.

The basketball quintet will play host to Pennington School on Thursday and face St. Benedict's at Newark on Saturday.

Saturday will also see the hockey team take on West Haven High School in a 3:30 p.m. contest on Lavino Rink, while swimming team will face Mercersburg Academy at Mercersburg.

Larrie skaters absorbed two defeats last week as they succumbed to Burrillville, R.I., Pete Nichols and Mike Sanger each had a goal against Burrillville, and Link Field was the lone scorer against New Hope.

League games are held over Tuesday night at 7:15, 8:15, and 9:15 in the high school gym. The public in invited.

HUN FIVE ALL EVEN

After Four Games. A 47-43 victory over previously unbeaten Germantown last Wednesday, coupled with a 66-50 defeat at the hands of previously winless Admiral Farragut, Monday left the Hun School quintet with a 2-2 record. Fortunately, however, for coach Dan Barren and Hun, the Red and Black players have been selective in defeat and as a result are 2-0 in the Penn-Jersey League.

Against Germantown in the Seminary gymnasium, Hun managed to freeze the ball in the final two minutes of play after Tommy Petrone sank two of three foul shots to prevent the game from going into overtime. Hitting on 38 percent of its shots while holding Germantown to 16 points in the first half, Hun used a zone press to hang on in the final periods and make the Philadelphia school its second straight Penn-Jersey victim.

In Monday's tilt, both Hun and Farragut hit for 34 points in the second half, but the admirals outshot the visitors, 32-16 in the first two periods. Fine foul shooting, 13 for 15 in the second half, was more than offset by a poor 20 percent average from the floor by the Red and Black.

Hun's next opponent is Moorestown. The game will be played in the Seminary gymnasium, Friday afternoon.

Cappon Sidelined

Princeton's chances of defending its Ivy League basketball title were dealt a severe blow Wednesday when Cappy Cappon, 60-year old veteran coach of the Tigers, suffered a heart attack. He is in Princeton Hospital for observation.

Joey L. "Jake" McCandless, assistant to Cappon and varsity backfield coach in football, will replace him. There was no indication of how soon Cappon will be able to return to his coaching duties.

MERGER PLANNED

For Planned Parenthood. The Planned Parenthood Committees of Princeton and Trenton will hold a joint meeting Tuesday at 10:30 at the home of Mrs. S. Kissam-Kerr, Bear Tavern Road, West Trenton. The two committees will discuss merger plans, and the problems of making its services known throughout Mercer County and adjoining sections of Bucks County.

The Trenton office, created last year, has given out information on birth control, child spacing and infertility to over 400 people. The Princeton group has been responsible for giving instruction and information to migrant workers in the area, and for planning similar programs with other health agencies in the East.

"Although the population explosion is recognized as a world problem," the committees point out, "it is not as easily recognized as a local problem. Each unwanted child who becomes dependent on the state costs the community $1000 a year, plus much more in juvenile delinquency, housing and ill health.

"It is, therefore, more important than ever that as many people as possible be informed of the existing approved methods of birth control. The Planned Parenthood committees are the only organizations offering safe, reliable and medically-approved birth control methods to all."

Officers of the Princeton committee are Mrs. John Davies, chairman; Mrs. M. A. Mayers, vice-chairman; Mrs. Dudley Woodbridge, recording secretary; Mrs. David McAlpin Jr., corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Oscar Sussman, treasurer. Those interested in learning more about the group should call the office at WA 4-3082.

"ALL MY BABIES"

Film to Be Shown. A midwifery film, "All My Babies," will be shown Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church under the auspices of the Princeton Childbirth Education League.

The entire upper-level of this charming house has four airy bedrooms of generous proportions, well-arranged closets and cross ventilation. Two ceramic tile baths complete this floor.
